Description

The Cambuhat River and Village Tour is now the pride of the municipality of Buenavista. The town has bountiful natural resources that are now being tapped for eco-tourism pursuits. In Cambuhat, they have a wide and picturesque river lined with mangroves and nipa palms. Guests are treated to paddle boat rides on native boats and go downstream, winding through verdant mangrove and nipa palms.

Guests are then led to the established oyster farm and a small visitor's centre on the bank of the river. They will then be treated to a hearty lunch of oysters and other seafood. During the tour and while dining, the guests learn first-hand about the intricacies of oyster culture, the management of the river and mangroves.

A short trip up to the village follows and the Cambuhat community then show off to the guests their skills in the weaving of raffia using native looms, broom making, the weaving of saguran and mats, the making of nipa thatches, hats, baskets and many more items. The tour is inclusive of air-conditioned transportation, services of professional tour guide, local community guide, community fees, lunch, boat and paddler.
